

I want, and expect, that you will honor the will of the general population and retain, and strengthen, the Do Not Call list regulations.

Telemarketing is a major violation of individual privacy, and while a valuable tool for all that have used it in the past, our homes should be off limits to those we have not invited, whether in person or through our phone and internet services.

Please do not go backward but, at a minimum, keep the present system in place.